

Share your story

Do you have lived experience of disability?

You could help others who are also on that journey. We're looking for people from around New Zealand who are keen to share their disability stories in a new Firstport video series. The series will focus on the different ways disabled people in New Zealand live their lives, including the services and support they access.

Whether you live with a disability or you share your life with someone who does, we'd love to help you share your experiences.

Find out more

Visit firstport.co.nz/video or scan the QR code for more information and to apply.

