Taekwon-Do for those with intellectual and or physical disabilities is available to everyone at various times during the mornings and during the afternoons, evenings. We offer an inclusive environment integrating those with disabilities. We would like to encourage more to make contact and learn the original Taekwon-Do, ITF, as what the Founder of Taekwon-Do created April 11th, 1955.

Ben Evans runs this programme and has been going many years with great success and results. His programme is the first and has expanded internationally to many countries under the IITA (International Inclusive Taekwon-Do Association). The next world championships will be 2023 in Netherlands! We have a NZ Championships for the Disabilities including all ages from primary to 70+!!

If anyone was interested, get in touch. Our location is 115 King Street South, Hastings, the NZ ITF Taekwon-Do Centre.

Meaningful Mahi

Te Pou has created an exciting multimedia campaign, called Meaningful Mahi, that tells new stories about disabled people - and disability support work - to inspire a new generation of diverse young people to explore this opportunity.

This campaign showcases young people, especially Māori and Pasifika young people, and presents disability support work in a fresh, exciting way.

The campaign features three spectacular real-life 'support work matches', each diverse pair made up of a disabled person and someone who supports them to live a great life. These matches are profiled in the campaign through stories about their unique connections, featuring stunning photography and an 'FAQ' video section.

Chair Disability Network

The role's key function is to bring together stakeholders in the disability sector to develop preparedness and respond to an emergency that impacts the HB community. During a response they would also need to attend meetings with the Welfare Coordination Group (WCG) if required.

A Network of networks structure supports this role as well as a terms of reference (TOR), which outlines the approach. Currently there are four groups within the network of networks. The chairperson has a lead role to initiate and operationalise the network of networks during an emergency response. Each 'sub-group' within the network has a co-chair to support the chair and to manage the meeting process if the chair is not able to for any reason.

The chair would also bring this group together to support preparedness which includes improving the network's approach, training in emergency response, etc.

This role is absolutely critical in ensuring we have an effective response in an emergency for people with a disability. We would love to hear from you.

At present each organisation within the network has agreed to provide and resource a representative for their group(s). This includes the co-chairs for each group, and, the chair (this role). It is important that organisation you represent endorses and supports an application for the role.

Tasks:

- Understand the Welfare Coordination Group's Terms of Reference (ToR) which includes the Disability Networks ToR.
- Maintain a Disability Network distribution list.
- Call and facilitate Disability Network meetings
- Attend Welfare Coordination Group meetings when invited by the DHB Lead for the Disability Network.

What we offer

- CDEM training
- Support to deliver the above functions
- An opportunity to guide and lead the emergency response for people with disabilities.
